HEW Sets Campaign To Cut Red Tape

From Wire Reports

WASHINGTON — Operation Common Sense has been created by Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano Jr. to unravel the red tape engulfing his department's programs. In 45 pages of documents, Califano Monday spelled out a five-year reform to make HEW program regulations simpler, less legalistic, more up-to-date and easier to read. One target is the 6,000 pages in 13 volumes of the Code of Federal Regulations devoted to HEW program rules. Califano cited one regulation that contains a 249-word formula for recomputing deadlines for a welfare program when the deadlines fall on a nonwork day.

'Snoopy' Banks Recalled

WASHINGTON — The Consumer Product Safety Commission is ordering the recall of some 60,000 painted "Snoopy" toy banks that have excessive amounts of lead. The federal agency said Monday that it did not know of any injuries or illnesses associated with the toy banks, patterned after the dog Snoopy, a cartoon strip character. It said a routine check by the manufacturer, Ideal Toy Corp., of Hollis, N.Y., revealed that the paint used on the banks had a lead content which exceeded the government's present permissible level of five-tenths of 1 percent. The six-inch-high banks feature Snoopy in four poses. Persons who have these banks should return them to the place of purchase for a full refund, the commission said.

Cameras Allowed In Court

ATLANTA — "It went as smooth as silk," Chief Justice H.E. Nichols said Monday after the Georgia Supreme Court opened its doors for the first time to television crews and newspaper photographers. "Technically speaking, everything went very well, and judging from the number of calls I've been getting, the public really liked it . . ." he added. But lawyers who made their first televised appearances expressed reservations about the added coverage, which Nichols said was meant to give the public "better understanding of the judicial process."

Wallace Sues For Divorce

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Gov. George C. Wallace filed for divorce from his wife, Cornelia, Monday, more than a year after she acknowledged tapping his bedroom telephone to find out who was spreading rumors she was unfaithful. Mrs. Wallace, who said she could "no longer endure the vulgarity, threats and abuse" when she moved out of the governor's mansion last Tuesday, was not available for comment. The 58-year-old Wallace claimed in his petition "there has been an irretrievable breakdown" of his marriage to the 38-year-old former professional water skier he married in 1971.

Cholera Threatens Pilgrims

DAMASCUS, Syria — Syria and Jordan have canceled holiday leaves for health officials in a drive to contain a cholera outbreak before Moslems on the annual pilgrimage to Mecca spread the infection around the world. The epidemic already has claimed nearly 70 lives and stricken more than 2,300 persons, primarily in Syria but also in Jordan, Lebanon, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia and even the Israeli-occupied West Bank of Jordan. In Syria, where the outbreak began in late August, the disease has killed 68 persons and stricken 2,100. Jordan has registered more than 200 cases and scattered cases were reported in the other Middle Eastern nations. Syria and Jordan Monday ordered health officials to stay on the job despite a three-day official holiday starting Wednesday to mark the end of the Moslem holy month of Ramadan.

Begin Sees Peaceful Year

TEL AVIV — Prime Minister Menahem Begin has assured Israelis celebrating the Jewish new year of 5738 that there will not be another Middle East war in the next 12 months. "I believe the new year will be a year without war," the 64-year-old Begin said. The two-day Rosh Hashana holiday started at sundown Monday and was ushered in by the traditional sounding of the ram's horn at more than 10,000 synagogues across the country. An estimated one million Israelis were taking part in religious observances, but tens of thousands of others flocked to the country's beaches and parks to enjoy the last days of summer.

Liddy Having No Trouble Getting Used To Freedom

WASHINGTON (AP) — G. Gordon Liddy, the silent Watergate conspirator, says he is adapting to freedom as quickly as he adapted to prison. He's spending his time running races with his son, getting to know his wife again and being "very, very happy."

Dining with his wife, Frances, at a Washington restaurant Monday on his sixth day as a free man, Liddy, who plotted the Watergate break-in that deposed a president, talked about the joys of racing his son, being with his wife once again and trying to lose a cavalcade of newsmen on the streets of New York.

"YES, INDEED, I am very very happy these days," said a smiling, relaxed Liddy.

Asked where he's headed, Liddy repeated the cryptic phrase he gave reporters after his release from federal prison in Danbury, Conn., Wednesday. "East of the sun and west of the moon."

BUT NOW, he explained, east of the sun was the fancy hotel suite where he gave his first interviews last week, while west of the moon is an unidentified remote spot where, he and his wife could be alone for their first real honeymoon in 20 years of marriage.

Tanned and wearing a cord suit with striped tie, Liddy sipped brandy and posed with his wife for photographers, talking about the last several days.

"I was a bit surprised at how quickly one readjusts to a situation. I adapted to prison very rapidly and I adapted back to freedom very rapidly," said Liddy, crediting that to strict religious education and the adage, "When in Rome do as the Romans do."

HE SAID he and his wife had not watched last week's television miniseries, Washington Behind Closed Doors, based on the book, The Company, by John Ehrlichman, a Watergate figure still in prison.

But he has found time to read newspapers, hard to come by in prison.

Asked if he saw any parallels between the Bert Lance affair and Watergate, Liddy pointed to "some elements of the media and Congress," who led to the destruction of Nixon.

BUT LIDDY said it would be "presumptuous, immature and imprudent" of him to make any judgment about Lance, President Carter's embattled budget director, because he did not have all the facts.

Liddy spoke of his children, especially 13-year-old Raymond, who beat him in a two-mile race by 10 yards.

"I WAS A little bit afraid that perhaps, because I just came out of prison, he might let me win," said Liddy, who is 46.

"But I was very pleased that he still had that same competitive fire. I tell my children, 'I don't care if you're competing against God — win!' Once I get back into shape, I'm going to take him."
